

CAVA

Multimedia 360° show in the restored marble quarries in Arzo

CAVA wants to plunge with you into the magical landscape of Arzo's marble quarries. Many actors, musicians, singers and dancers play with the history engraved in these stones and create new thrilling stories out of them. An oneiric evening walk through lights and shadows will lead you to a fantastical world, where you can still hear a quiet echo resounding like sea waves...

About quarries of Arzo

The quarries of Arzo are a place where for centuries many people dug and extracted stones from the earth's darkness to bring their beauty to light.

It was a very hard work, so what pushes people to dig? The desire to decorate their homes and temples? The need to make a living? Probably both, but poetically we can identify a symbol in the extraction of stone, noble and tremendous at the same time: to bring to light and to disembowel. The quarry is a bite in the mountain, a half revealed secret, what was underneath is now on the surface.

The stories of the generations who worked here overlap with the geological history that the stone carvers made visible without realizing. Now, an apparent calm reigns over the quarries, however all these stories have remained in the air or, better said, in the rock. Millions of years are engraved in the memory of the stone. Geologists can read the past of the marble's lines just like gypsies read the future through the lines of a hand's palm. The stones tell the sea's story to those who can listen to it.
